

CRITTERS & CREATURES

Lords & Ladies OUTFITTERS

Two women are talking in front of the shop. One is wearing a yellow shirt and blue pants, the other a red shirt and purple pants. There are flower baskets and dresses on display.

A woman in a red dress is holding a black crow. A horse-drawn cart is nearby, with a woman in a pink dress sitting inside. A clock tower is in the background.

A brown horse is pulling a cart. A wizard in a blue robe with white stars and a purple hat is standing next to a white owl. A green frog is on a stump, and a pumpkin is on the ground.

A small figure with a red hat and a blue bag is walking. A yellow cat is running. A white mouse is on the ground. A green snake is coiled on the grass.

K is for Katydid

Katydid hide high up in the branches of tall trees and eat bright green leaves. At night they rub their wings together and sing loud, chirpy songs as one big chorus.

L is for Ladybird

Ladybird beetles are very friendly garden critters and are said to bring good luck! They are much-loved by all gardeners because they eat the nasty insects that can ruin vegetables and flowers.
